You are worried what your friends or family will think.For some, divorce can be an embarrassment or a failure. If you are cheating on your spouse physically or emotionally, it might be time to give your spouse the respect they deserve and get a divorce so that both can find happiness.At the end of the day, you can only determine whether you should get a divorce. 10. You're unfaithful to your spouse.Many people think of a relationship as a physical relationship. When we lived on the 4th floor of a walk in Chicago, we ate ramen noodles alone, without worrying about the world. Dear Twitpic Community - thank you for all the wonderful photos you've taken over the years. If you're working to get your marriage back on track, but your spouse isn't, then it might be time to move on without them.Whether emotional or physical, abuse is something that no one should have to endure.If you believe you are a victim of abuse, consider calling the National Domestic Violence Hotline at 1-800-799-SAFE (7233).6.) Think of your marriage as "the lesser of two evils." If you're alone with your husband or wife because you think it's easier than having to start over and find someone new, chances are your relationship is in serious trouble. When this doesn't happen anymore or has become one-sided, it might be time to call it quits.3.) Stay together just for the kids".Divorce is not a tragedy. But if you believe that nothing can be done to save your marriage and the only thing stopping you from going through with a divorce is worrying about what your friends or family will think, it might be time to follow your intuition.You deserve to be happy. Joe and Cheryl Dillon are co-founders of Equitable Mediation Services, a specialized divorce mediation company Couples to divorce peacefully, economically and fairly - without lawyers. We make new bloggers on HuffPost Divorce! Have an inspirational story moving on post-split? 7.) You no longer trust or respect your spouse.A strong marriage is based on trust, understanding and mutual respect.If you've lost all respect or no longer trust your spouse, it may be a sign that it's time to move on.8.) You think it's "cheaper to keep her (or him)"There's no doubt that two households are more expensive to run than one. They know more than you think they do, and they can sense animosity a mile away. That this time there's no turning back?While there's no magic answer for when to get a divorce, here are 10 signs it might be time to take that next step.1.) You're convinced that you'd be better off alone.It's perfectly normal as we grow older to pine for the carefree days of youth gone by. We have now placed Twitpic in an archived state. A tragedy's staying in an unhappy marriage and teaching your children the wrong things about love." - Jennifer WeinerChildren are very smart. So how do you know if you should proceed? How can you be sure that this time is really it? And if the people you're worried about truly care for you as they should, they'll support your decision, regardless of their own personal opinions on divorce. divorce.
